

Annie's Project

Class of 2009 Poem Maryland & Delaware

Annie's' Project is dear to our hearts,
it's held special meaning, right from the start.
We have learned so much – you never will know how you've broadened our vision and helped us grow.
As women in farming, we have done what we are told.
That tradition is changing – it has gotten old.
We have the resources to help lead the way.
Knowledge is power – now we have a say.
Farm women together, united and strong,
networking information to help each other along.
For the good of our families, our farms and our friends,
we will always keep trying with faith that won't end.
So for all our effort, for all that you've done.
We have loved every minute and we all have had fun.

Author:

Terry Tribbett
Denton, Maryland
Grain, Hay and Poultry farm with her husband, 3 boys and their wives and grandchildren
Annie's Class 2008 and 2009 at Wye Mills, Maryland

Presented to:

Shannon Dill & Jenny Rhodes
University of Maryland Extension Educators,
Agriculture & Natural Resources
March 11, 2009

Farmer Snow Woman